Students Join Liturgy Dialogue Mass Begins

November 30, the beginning of the Church's year, marked the start of a liturgical movement on campus. From now on there will be active lay participation in the noon Mass on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Initiated by the Sodality group headed by Frank Bien, the N.F.C. C.S. and the St. John Berchman's Society joined in the movement and proper permissions were obtained from the school authorities and the Archbishop.

Short Responses

At present the participation consists in giving the shorter Latin responses plus a commentary on the priest's actions and a reading of the Epistle and Gospel in English.

Father Lind has consented to act as clerical moderator. Other members of the faculty will alternate in giving the commentary. The Epistle and Gospel readings will be given by one of the members of the group.

Eventual Plans

Sometime in the near future, the group hopes to increase the congregation's participation by adding the rest of the Mass responses and forming an Offertory procession.

Short Takes

Gorman Lecturer

"The Book of Kells: Christian Barbarian Art" will be presented in Cohn Hall December 9 at 1 P.M. Fr. Robert McNally, S.J. Professor of Ecclesiastical History, Woodstock College, will illustrate this lecture with slides.

Local Poet

Freshman Lawrence F. Wienholt's poem, "The Smell of Spring" was accepted for publication in the Annual Anthology of College Poetry.

Frosh, Sophs Elect Officers On Dec. 9

This coming Wednesday, Dec. 9, elections for all freshman offices and for the open office of Student Council Rep of Sophomore year will be held as scheduled. The list of approved candidates has been posted on the Dean's Bulletin Board, and campaigning began Monday.

Candidates

The following men have been nominated for the office of Sophomore Council Rep and approved by the Elections Committee and Dean: Gene Melka, John Baynes, Larry Schwarzman, and Joe McCurdy.

The Freshman class will select its officers from these candidates: For PRESIDENT — Mike Burton, Carl Manfre, for VICE-PRESIDENT Dan Galluzzo, Walter Griffin, Dorsey Baldwin, and William Kohlhepp; for TREASURER — John Ramos, Allen Feinberg, and William Jenkins; for SECRETARY — Henry Becker and Charles Blair; for the single COUNCIL REPRESENTATIVE — Ed Slawski and Henry McGraw.

Polling Data

Since the Student Union is yet unavailable for general use, elections will be held in the present Cafeteria from 11 A.M. til 2 P.M. This time spread encompasses the Wednesday activity hour.

Poll supervisors approved by the Student Council will be Walt Hinkley '60, and Ham Dugan '62.

Other Offices

In other action the Chairman of the Elections Committee has designated Brian Keegan, present Sophomore Vice-president, to take over the recently vacated Sophomore Presidency. Also, Dave Mulrooney will serve the balance of the year as Sophomore Secretary-Treasurer.

On Tuesday, Dec. 8, the combined Election and Constitution Committees of the Student Council will meet to reappraise the present Election Ordinances.

Harriers Third In M.D. Meet; Sherman Fourth

Loyola's fine x-country men after their second undefeated season, finished a very respectable third in the Mason-Dixon tournament. This ordinarily should not require excuses. But a third place finish for this squad does not reflect its true greatness. This is why special emphasis must be made of the fact that Stack Burton, the team's number two runner, was running in the meet while still weakened by the flu.

Debaters At NYU Temple Tomorrow

Loyola debaters head north this weekend, the varsity to New York and the novice team to Philadelphia.

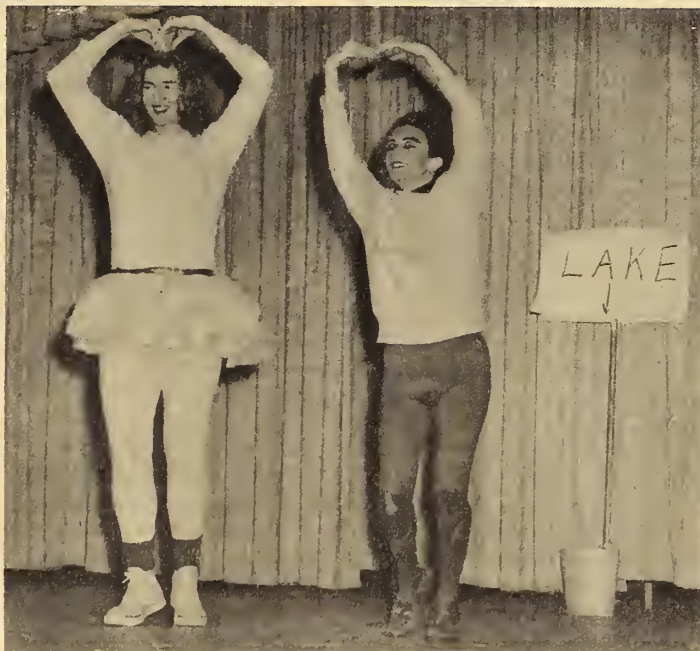

Leaving today for the two-day Hall of Fame Tournament at New York University are Nelson Cooney, Tom Curtis, Tom Dwyer and John Baynes.

At Temple University's Novice Tourney, in Philadelphia will be Chuck Hollander, Bill Everhardt, Ed Slawski and Ed Conery.

Annapolis Results

Baynes will be out to match or better his performance at the Naval Academy two weeks ago, when he was ranked third among the 52 debaters from the 13 colleges competing.

At the conclusion of these tournaments, Loyola debaters will have engaged in 75 intercollegiate debates this fall. Invitations have been received to Georgetown, Harvard, Pitt, Kings and West Point for second semester.

Culture lovers welcomed Dick Prodey's MC'ing at Loyola Nite. They were not so partial to the choreography of O'Haranova and Cawthornevitch who did their best to retrograde ballet and Tschalchovski.

Editorials

Basketball American U.

Tomorrow night the basketball team opens its 1959-60 season. The opponent will be American University. When these two teams play at Evergreen an exciting contest is always expected. Last year the Greyhounds upset the Eagles 70-68 in probably the most thrilling game played on the Loyola court all year.

American U. will be led by its fabled back courtman Wee Willy Jones, and phenomenal high-jumping center Dick Wells. Jones, at 5'8", is not only one of the conferences greatest scorers, but his adept ball handling and dribbling techniques are a sight to see. And fans will marvel at the rebounding and dunking skills of the 6'4" Wells.

Lefty Reitz and his squad have been working hard in preparation for the opener. Loyola has a good team, and deserves to have a good student attendance. The game is free to all students who have obtained season books, and it costs only fifty cents extra to bring a date. Everyone else has to pay one dollar to gain admission.

This is a big one and we want to win it. Let's show our basketball team that we are behind them all the way. Let's be in attendance at this game and at all the games played at Evergreen.

Social Fraternities

There is an annual event on the Loyola campus known as the "Fraternity Purge". We are now in the 1959-60 version.

Let us say at the start that The Greyhound has no close connections with any independent social organization and is neutral to the approval of them by the school administration. We do oppose a severe suppression of them.

Though at a non-resident college, such as Loyola, social fraternities might not be considered a useful good, we think that they can be considered a delectable good and are therefore a matter of taste. It has been a common experience that legislated taste has caused a great deal of ill-will and we feel that strong legislation on this point would cause more unrest and ill-will than any possible compensating avoidance of scandal.

There is a principle that every good law must be enforceable; because of man's natural social tendencies which are particularly strong among college students, a severe restriction on such groups would be unenforceable. Therefore we do not consider such a ruling a good law.

In the past there has been unfortunate publicity connected with social clubs made up predominantly of Loyola students and because of this there are grounds to restrict such groups. We feel that the administration is justified in its present policy in considering members of unapproved organizations unqualified for student office, because of this.

Because of the bad publicity in the past and because of the divisiveness that organized social groups frequently cause, we would hesitate proposing the sanctioning or fostering of social clubs or organizations. Since, however, severe legislation on this matter would, we feel, be unenforceable and cause strong resentment, we would propose that the school administration at least take an attitude of understanding and tolerance. We feel that once this great "secret" of social fraternities is made unsecret, there will arise an atmosphere of greater cooperation here at Loyola.

Meet The Faculty Mr. Frank Kammel

by THOMAS HIMMELHEBER
"What is essentially needed for a successful career is the desire to obtain a college education as a thing in itself, and not to attend just for the degree which is handed out after four years."

The author of the above statement is Mr. Francis Kammel, who is in his first year as freshmen Mathematics teacher at Loyola. This will be Mr. Kammel's third year of teaching.

A native of Brooklyn, New York, Mr. Kammel graduated "cum laude" from St. John's College in Brooklyn with a B.S. in Mathematics and immediately went to Georgetown University, from which he will receive his M.A. this June. He taught at Georgetown in 1957 and the summer of 1958.

Much Alike

Comparing St. Johns to Loyola, Mr. Kammel noted that "Although I have not been associated with Loyola sufficiently to give a complete comparison, still I can say that the atmosphere of the two colleges is much the same. Both schools are small, with few boarders." He did stress the fact that "Freshmen are freshmen, no matter where you are."

However, a distinction which can be readily made, according to Mr. Kammel, is that "Up north, the students are somewhat more ram-bunctious than at Loyola. Also, I would not say that Baltimoreans are extremely lazy" (Attention: faculty members!).

Math Club

Having been moderator of St. John's Math Club, Mr. Kammel brings some first-hand experience to his post of faculty advisor to the Saccheri Mathematics Academy. He has installed several innovations which should make this year a successful one for the Club.

The new plans include the publication of a short mathematical journal at the end of the school year, to be comprised of papers written by both students and faculty members. Help classes may also be set up in the near future to aid underclassmen.

In conclusion, Mr. Kammel stated the basic need for success in studies is persistence.

Mr. Francis Kammel

the Watchdog

The big news this week seems to be the wonderful job done by Dick Prodey on Loyola Nite. We would like Dick to know that the old school won't be the same without him.

We have on hand a letter from Hungary asking why the local chapters of the fraternities haven't been heard from lately.

Father Scott's horse in Paris has been seen lately in the company of a very heavy elephant.

Sgt. Foley says that the Juniors are definitely going to have an extra hour's class on Wednesday during drill intermission. I think it's safe to say that the Juniors definitely don't like it. Also the flag at the military ball definitely was short two stars.

Somewhere on Campus there is a bargain. It's green. However, the owner is obviously unaware of the recent large strides made in the automotive field. They call it the car wash.

Thanks to the Green and Grey, whose achievements in the field of paper consumption cannot be equalled.

We asked the visiting rifle team from Dickenson, the other day, if they were going to eat in the school cafeteria this year. "No," they said, "We ate there last year."

The Greyhound pictures are getting so good that next year the school might even buy us a camera.

The Loyola High School Alumni Dance was a success the other day. Corcoran says that Harvey can have his table back now.

Speaking of predictions: How about a prediction on whether or not Harry will be able to predict what school he will be predicting in next year.

We have heard that Lefty is giving out green stamps with the basketball books. Mac will be glad to show anyone where the gym is.

The math majors were relieved to find out that people on the outside are still using numbers, as in the placement office's test.

Marksman Christen Student Union Bldg.

The new rifle range in the Student Union Building received its baptism of fire when the Loyola College ROTC Rifle Team fired against Dickenson College on November 20. The superintendent of the building crew allowed the team use of the new range for that one home match. Conditions were not perfect due to the unfinished state of the range, but enough improving was done to make these conditions satisfactory.

Loyola lost this match by 96 points with four of Dickenson's top five men bettering the highest Loyola score of 268.

Record Of 1-4

The rifle team has lost three other matches this season. On October 23 an away match was lost to Howard University by a score of 1334 to 1269. Dickenson scored another win over Loyola by handing Sergeant Foley's marksmen a 1358 to 1239 trouncing. The team traveled to Catholic University on November and suffered another loss by 91 points.

The one bright spot in the season was the one point win over the University of Delaware on November 13. With ten seconds remaining in the last relay, freshman Austin Platz squeezed off his final round to post a 265 score and win the match for Loyola.

Though the range was open for the Dickenson match, it will not be available for practice until Christmas.

Harriers Third

It is a tribute to Stack's great competitive spirit that in spite of this he still finished the race, although farther back than he is accustomed. "Had he not been sick," said coach Bill McElroy, "we would have won the tournament."

In this sport, where endurance is so essential to the runner, it is almost inconceivable that a runner would try to compete while being below his physical peak. Stack and coach McElroy were both aware of this but Stack's value to the team, was such that, victory without him was impossible.

The meet was featured by a sensational two man race between B.U.'s lone entry Wayne Gallatin and the eventual winner Mike Halpin of Catholic U.

Bob Jenkins of Roanoke finished third, and Loyola's Paul Sherman outlasted Fitz Fitzpatrick in a close race to finish fourth.

Besides Sherman the Hounds who contributed to their third place effort were Lew Smith, Hank McGraw, and Wayne Leidner.

Swimmers Vs. Virginians In Opener At Evergreen

By BILL LOHNES

Loyola opens its 1959-60 intercollegiate basketball season against American U. tomorrow night at 8:15 P.M. on the home court in the opening M.-D. tap-off for both teams.

A.U. which swept the Mason-Dixon Tournament and then went on to the N.C.A.A. small college tourney last season, has its entire first squad returning, which means that Wild Willy Jones, Dick Wells, and Bill Beauchamp are back to haunt the Hounds.

Victory for the Green and Grey hinges on how well the jump-shooting Jones is kept bottled up, and whether Joe O'Hara and Ed Murn can outfight Wells and Beauchamp under the boards.

The Reitzmen will count heavily on the shooting and ball handling of Junior John Heagney. Heagney averaged 14.4 points per game last year while maintaining the best shooting percentage of 44.4 percent.

Dave "Bird" Carney has been working in the back court with Heagney and could develop into the playmaker that coach Reitz has been looking for to replace the graduated Ferd Ruppel.

The rest of the first liners include O'Hara, Murn, Mike Sneeringer, and Steve Boguski.

The Greyhounds journey to New York to battle St. Francis of Brooklyn and St. Peters (N.J.) on Tuesday and Wednesday, and then return home on Friday the 12th against Hofstra.

By PETE COOK

With his charges opening to-night (7:30 p.m.) against Lynchburg, Coach Bill Klarner has been running the Loyola College swimming team hard all week. The Virginians' are the first of five Mason-Dixon Conference opponents on the Hounds' eleven-meet schedule this year.

The tankmen will hardly get a chance to get out of the water, for tomorrow (2:30 p.m.), they face a strong Fordham University outfit in what figures to be one of the top meets of the season. Last year the New Yorkers' edged the Evergreeners 44-41 and Klarner figures they're going to be improved but adds, "I hope not at our expense!"

Of the five Conference opponents, American University and vastly-improved Randolph-Macon will probably be the toughest. Coach Klarner has this to say about the Hoyas: "Last year Georgetown had a bad day against us and lost, but this year they're going to be tough."

The richest event for the Greyhounds should be the breaststroke. Besides veterans Ted Herget, Bo Bavis and Paul Karpers, the squad boasts two promising newcomers, in Ken Freimuth and Neil Ames.

With the loss of graduated Mike Karpers, the backstroke situation is just the opposite. Mike Ennis, who finished sixth in the conference tournament last year, is back but the sorely-needed depth is not there. Coach Klarner just about sums up the problem with, "We'll feel the loss of Mike Karpers."
